SBG 2:14

O Arjuna, impermanent things like happiness and sadness, heat and cold in summer and winter, come and go. They are temporary. Therefore, learn to endure them.

To those people who worship Me alone, thinking of no other, I ensure that they get what they want and preserve what they have.

Whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you offer in sacrifice, whatever you give, whatever you practise as austerity, O Arjuna, do it for Me and as an offering unto Me.

By doing so, you will be freed from the bonds of action that result in good and in bad. By being free and with your mind guided by the principle of the Yoga of renunciation, you will attain Me.

Even if the most sinful worships Me, with exclusive devotion, he should indeed be regarded as righteous, for he has taken the right resolution.

A person who neither causes fear to others nor is frightened by others, and is not agitated due to euphoria, anger and excitement caused by the world, is dear to Me.

SBG 18:48

O Arjuna, one should not abandon duties born of one's nature, even if one sees flaws in them. This is because endeavours are veiled by some incidental imperfections just as fire is by smoke.

SBG 18:57

Mentally renouncing all actions in Me, having Me as the highest goal and devoting yourself intensely to me, you are under my protection. Be fully conscious of Me.
